

The Bare Naked Press Co

In 2007, John and Irene Lingenfelter became proprietors of JIL Ink Studios. They completed the construction of their 1500 square foot printmaking studio and press facility in the hills of New River, Arizona.

JIL Ink Studios was created not only as a personal artist's studio but also to promote professional education in the fine art of printmaking in a non-toxic environment.

The studio is the home of the Bare Naked Press Company, which was founded the same year. Our mission is to manufacture a quality-made, affordable etching press for the individual studio artist or educational institution.

Standard Etching Press

Our press is specially fabricated using the latest technology & precision of 3D CAD, water-jet and CNC machining, utilizing heavy gauge plates and square tubular steel with high quality bearings and gears.

The main rollers are 5½" diameter steel made from extra heavy CNC machined steel tubing. Smooth 8 to 1 gear ratio operates the phenolic-resin press bed, which measures 30" x 60" x 1" with bed safety stops included. The precision micrometer handle adjustments are laser etched high polished aluminum. Each press comes standard with a 30" diameter French wheel. An optional 40" French wheel is available.

Press is shipped with a set of three blankets, press grid and clear Lexan bed plate cover.

FOB New River, Arizona.

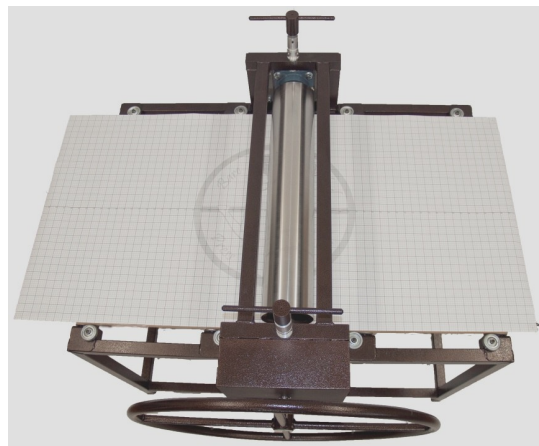

Precision Settings

The high quality Bare Naked Press is currently being used by institutions and fine art printmakers within the USA and Canada. The versatility of the Bare Naked Press design allows it to be disassembled into three major components to fit through a 20" doorway, fitting into the smallest of studio entrances. Its beautiful design and copper vein powder coating make it a work of art!

Other manufacturer's presses this size can be more than twice the price!
